Risk Warning: Past performance is not indicative of future results. Our investment management services relate to a variety of investments, each of which can fluctuate in value. The value of portfolios we manage may fall as well as rise, and the investor may not get back the full amount originally invested. The investment risks vary between different types of instruments. For example, for investments involving exposure to a currency other than that in which the portfolio is denominated, changes in the rate of exchange may cause the value of investments, and consequently the value of the portfolio, to go up or down. In the case of a higher volatility portfolio the loss on realization or cancellation may be very high (including total loss of investment), as the value of such an investment may fall suddenly and substantially. In making an investment decision, prospective investors must rely on their own examination of the merits and risks involved. Disclaimer: Unless otherwise noted, all information contained herein is sourced from BPI AIA* internal data. Market Commentary

Asian equities ended the month in the green, albeit with significant dispersion amid the US 'Higher for Longer' scenario. China and Hong Kong appreciated the most, while the bottom-performing markets were Indonesia and Korea. China's earnings revisions contributed positively to the index return, along with an anticipation of further policy support for the property sector. Hong Kong also gained, led by the rally in value names across the index. A weakening Indonesian Rupiah led to an unexpected hike in policy rates in Indonesia, impacting the equity market. Korea saw some sell-off, mostly on profit taking in tech hardware, together with a decrease in exports.
